"MAN is undergoing the biggest transformation in its history, which spans more than 260 years. Our customers' requirements in terms of the sustainability of our products are changing fundamentally. The same applies to the degree of their digitalization. I am looking forward to working with Marc Langendorf, who has many years of communications experience in both fields and who is returning to Volkswagen," said the new CEO of MAN Truck & Bus, Alexander Vlackamp.

Before joining Telefónica, Marc Langendorf was Head of Corporate Communications at Volkswagen from 2018 to 2020, where he was responsible for the Group's and brand's business and financial press relations. Previously, he held a senior position at the strategic communications consultancy Brunswick. Between 2006 and 2015, Langendorf held various positions at Siemens AG in Munich and Washington, D.C., most recently as Deputy Head of Corporate Communications & Government Affairs. At the same time, he taught "Media and Communication Management" at Munich's Macromedia University. Before moving into corporate communications, Marc Langendorf worked as a journalist at Dow Jones.
