MAN Engines is further expanding its business with engines for power generation in China. Hangzhou ZhengMann Automobile Sales Co., Ltd. is now taking over the sales and customer service of MAN diesel and gas engines for power generation and combined heat and power in the People's Republic of China as an authorized importer.

With the new cooperation, MAN Engines is strengthening its sales and service network in one of the world's most important markets for power generation. ZhengMann has many years of experience with MAN products and services as well as extensive knowledge of the local market. The cooperation combines local market presence and customer proximity with MAN Engines' quality, technology and service standards.

"China is an important market for us in the field of power generation. With ZhengMann, we are gaining an experienced partner who knows both the market and the requirements of our customers. Together, we are creating the conditions for the long-term development of our power business in China and the best possible support for our local customers," says Daniel Strucks, Head of MAN Engines.

Hangzhou ZhengMann Automobile Sales Co., Ltd. already represents MAN as an importer in the Chinese truck market and has many years of experience with products and services of the MAN brand. "The appointment as an authorized importer for MAN diesel and gas engines for power generation and combined heat and power is an important step in our cooperation with MAN. Our market knowledge and service network form a strong foundation to reliably support
